17-Day Meeting Made Remarkable by Lack of Hostility Between Two Groups.

BY VICTOR HACKLER.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.-(P)-The unionized forces on United States railways today accepted a 10 per cent wage reduction for the year beginning February 1, making an unprecedented decision in the expressed hope of timulating the revival of business.

Negotiations that started January 15 ended this afternoon as the representatives of nearly 2,000,000 rail workers agreed to the proposal of the employers, and the representatires of more than 200 railroads promsed an earnest and sympathetic effort to maintain an increased employ-pect to save about $215,000,000, making the reduction apply to unorganized employes as well as the brotherhood and union men.

Momentous Occasion.

It was a momentous occasion, widely heralded as a possible spur to renewed business activity, as the men whose wages are protected by contract capitulated to the arguments of their employers. In addition to the immediate importance as a relief measure to the stricken railway industry, it marked an entirely new phase in the relationship between raises tall and labor.

For the first time, on a nation-wide scale, presidents of railroads and heads of labor organizations sat down conference table and proceeded conference table and proceeded heads of labor organizations sat down at a conference table and proceeded amicably and unhurriedly to work out a solution of their problems. At no time during the 17 days they were in seasion or were deliberating their next move, was there any display of animosity between the two groups.

The labor delegation tried to have a definite standard set for the stabilization for employment. It sought to bargain for a six and one-half percent reduction and it made an attempt to start a joint study of the six-bour day. But in the end the unions bowed to what they recognized as "the urgent needs of the railroad industry and the demands of the public welfare" and accepted the full 10 per cent cut.

Participation of the army air corps in the search was interrupted at noon when Colonel H. M. Arnold ordered 18 planes, 10 pursuit ships and 8 bombers to return to March field at Riverside from the Grand Central airport here and the Alhambra flying field.

The weather forecast was for continued unsettled conditions, but Colonel Arnold said the army planes would be in readiness to take off for Lebec at 7 a. m. tomorrow if the degree of visibility justified.

The story of a Century-Pacific flyer, who said he believed he saw human figures on the mountain, also is being investigated.

Snow from a fot and a half to two feet in depth covers the region.

Two hundred and thirty men have been organized to search from Lebec as soon as weather conditions render a general survey practicable.

Besides Dewar, who was returning after an investigation of a kidnaping case at Bakersfield, those in the plane were J. V. Sandslow, 42, Los Angeles pilot; Marie Sweeney Combs. 18, Hollywood usheret; Nita McGrath, 32, Berkeley; Mrs. Margaret Fickeisen, wife of a San Diego businessman; Spencer Swain, 71, Pomona; J. M. The American, British and French ambassadors were summoned, it was explained, for the purpose of dissipating misapprehensions and misunderstandings abroad concerning Japea's position in Shasha.

M. Yoshizawa said the government considered it apparent that such misunderstandings existed because separate representations have been made to Tokyo by Washington, London and Paris. These representations, he added, were made verbally and therefore were not identical. He did not consider them to be protests.

A statement of the Morgan profits was made public by the committee as an aftermath of its inquiry into the flotation of foreign securities in this country.

the legal right to waive the penalty. Against this was the unofficial opinion of Attorney-General George M. Napier that delinquents would have a "very good defense" in the event charges had been made against them inasmuch as they could point to the rulings of the acting county attorney and the assistant attorney-general. However, while these various opinions were being weighed by the sheriff and his deputies and other sheriffs over the state, the announcement came that the time limit on the tags would be officially extended by the revenue commission. Though some state lead-ers doubt the commission's author-ity to take such action, no fight on it is expected.

Immediate continuance of Winnie Ruth Judd's trial for the murder of Agnes Anne LeRoi hinged today on improvement in the physical condition of the slender, feverish woman within the next 12 hours.

Her newly developed symptoms, said Dr. Mauldin, coupled with her already tubercular condition, were serious enough to cause him to recommend to Superior Judge Howard C. Speakman that she not be taken into the courtroom tomorrow unless she shows improvement overnight.

The majority of the American people are convinced that the father of their country was a man with extraordinary vision and wisdom when he advised his compatriots against foreign entanglements. This did not mean, as I take it, that George Washington or present-day Americans are dead-set against harmonious collaboration with the various European countries in the fields of commerce, banking, culture and industry, but merely that Americans are wary of sinking new treasures and blood into one of those insane European wars which so easily result from the malignant cancer of nationalism which has been eating away at the life of nationalism and that cancer of nationalism which has been eating away at the life of nationalism and that cancer of the second that cancer of nationalism which has been eating away at the life of nationalism and that cancer of nationalism which has been eating away at the life of nationalism was the lif been eating away at the life of na-tions so long and that comes to a pe-riodic crisis from time to time.

Credit System of the Nation Is on Trial, Not Capitalism, Says Thos. W. Hardwick, Urging That Banking Laws Be Revised

Class taxes violate the constitution. Knowing this to be true, sponors of the income tax devised a plan to violate the spirit of the law thile carefully observing the letter.

They knew the tax would be condemned by the supreme court unless appeared to burden men of all classes in equal proportion. They knew would be condemned by the public and by congress unless it excused the great majority.

For instance, the average deposit "turnover" rate in the New York city banks was 112 in the first eight months of 1929, and in the first eight months of 1931 the "turnover" of these same banks sank to 49, a reducion of almost 130 per cent in the thort period of two years, and a cor-responding contraction of bank

It has become absolutely necessary to curtail these great fortunes by income taxes so increased and graduated as to place upon them a burden proportionate to their ability to bear it, and then it will be possible to have a corresponding reduction of the taxes on small incomes.

These great fortunes may also be limited by a heavy inheritance tax. levied by the general government, and large enough to prevent perpetuity in

Let us take stock, for a moment, of the present situation:
In the last three years the value of gold has risen 40 per cent. This means that the value of all other property and producets has fallen 40 per cent in that short period. It means also that the ability of every debtor to pay a debt contracted in that period has been decreased 40 per cent or more.

While the per capita circulation of money in this country was recently stated by the treasury department to be $45.35, no sensible person believes that anything like that amount of money is in actual circulation among the people.

Most of it is hoarded in banks, in private boxes, and in other private hoxes, and in other private hoxes, and in other private was a corresponding reduction of imports into the country in the same period.

Present Tariff Called Iniquitous.
The highest and most iniquitous tariff law (the Hawley-Smoot act) ever enacted by any country in the history of the world, had a great deal to do with this.

The general reduction in the value of all property and products, other than gold, had something to do with it.

The dislocation of foreign exchange rates, growing largely out of the same so far as the public interests may require it.

r banks shall suspend this were done, what would happen?

1. Within a very short time we would have no banks except national banks, for who would deposit his money in any bank except in one where its safety was guaranteed by the government of the United States? 2. It would be necessary for the national banks in our cities and trade centers to provide branch banks in all places in their trade territory, where banking facilities are needed, and are moderately profitable. Self-interest and competition among one Plight of Average Businessman.
The rate of deposit "turnover" is all important in determining the freedom or contraction of business credit. In the year 1930, a year of great business depression, this turnover throughout the United States, was about 55 times the total of bank deposits. Since then the "turnover" deposit rate has greatly entered and the states, has only a few hanks. Scotland in the states of the states o each with many branches. Scotland has only a few banks, and the same system—I am informed—prevails in some other countries. In the United States it is probable that we would have a few hundred banks, each with many branches, instead of many thou-sand banks, as at present.

3. Such a system, with deposits so guaranteed, would not only check the alarming increase in bank failures in this country, but it would absolutely unfetter credit and go a long way to ward restoring prosperity country.

To Prevent Frozen Assets.

The Prevent Frozen Assets, and account of the enhanced value of gold, and our bank credits curtailed 30 per cent, the average businessman in this country finds himself in desperate plight, and that the tides of discontent, communian and boisheviam are constantly mounting to higher levels of the cotton producer in the south, and of the wheat producer in the west, is the most pitial paid and be peculiar troubles of their own. If it be said that this is a radical prescription. I readily admit it. Years it as dangerous, paternalistic, and communistic.

But, the present situation is critical, in the extreme. The patient is sinking. I am inclined to think it is necessary to pump oxygen into his lungs to prolong his life give him even a chance to live. This will do it. It is less radical, less revolutionary, less hurtful to our fundamental principles than a resort, general and widesprend, to the dole. It is far better to help our people feed themselves, than it is to feed them out of the public crib.

When we passed the federal reserve act the government of this country involved itself inextricably in the banking business, and virtually took over the banking business of the country. That being true it is vitally necessary that we make such adjustments as are necessary in order to make that business function properly and adequately meet present conditions.

It has not been many weeks since.

It has not been many weeks since Sir George Paish, the most eminent financial and economic authority of Great Britain, urged as the very first Great Britain, urged as the very first and most necessary step to restoration of confidence, and the liberalization of credits throughout the world, that bank deposits be guaranteed in Great Britain, France, Italy, Germany, Japan and the United States, by the national governments of each of those countries.

STANDARD.

While I firmly believe that the two suggestions already made, namely, that federal reserve discounts be liberalized, and that the government of the United States shall guarantee the deposits of national banks, would afford instant relief, yet it seems to me that an essential part of the permanent cure is the adoption, by international agreement, of some world-tradered of meney that is not hassel national agreement, of some world-standard of money that is not based on gold, or on any other metallic standard.

Golden Paradox Cited.

In the treasury of the United States we have today about three billions of gold money. When gold bullion is added, we have in the treasury a little over four billions. The total world stock of monetary gold is only slightly in excess of eleven and a quarter billions; and of this stock almost 90 percent is held in this country and in France, when private holdings are added in each country to the governmental holdings.

And yet, even in this country, we rarely see or handle any actual gold coin. The average citizen rarely sees or handles a gold coin, except now and then, when he draws one out of the bank for a Christmas present. The

MOULTRIE CHAMBER TO MEET ON TUESDAY

Vereen To Be Principal Speaker at Annual Gathering of Body.

MOULTRIE, Ga., Jan. 31 .- The wenty-third annual meeting of the oultrie Chamber of Commerce e held next Tuesday night and will e featured by an address by W. C. member of the state highvay board, who was the first president of the chamber of commerce, and who has been a member of the board who has been a member of the board of directors continuously since its organization in 1909.

The Saturday Evening Post carried a feature story last September, detailing the accomplishments of the Moultrie Chamber of Commerce in building one of the most outstanding communities in the south, if not the entire United States. Mr. Vereen was prominently mentioned in that article as a far-sighted banker who envisioned the duties and obligations of the banker to the community it was seeking to serve and had led in the demonstration of the correctness of that vision by the fact that there were no vacant houses in Moultrie and not an idle farm in Colquitt county. This in face of the fact that Georgia had lost 55,000 farms during the census period between 1920 and 1930 and that there was much unemployment with many vacant dwelling and business houses in practically every other town and city in the state. ment with many vacant dwelling and business houses in practically every other town and city in the state. Previous to the publication in the Saturday Evening Post, the Associated Press cent out a feature story on Moultrie and Colquitt county, which was published in all leading newspapers throughout the Union.

Officers who have served for 1931 are: O. W. Kincaid. president; Alex Hall and Louis Friedlander, vice presidents; W. E. Young, treasurer, and W. E. Aycock, secretary.

A Georgia products dinner will be served at the Colquitt hotel with a short business session, at which time the officers and directors will be named for 1932.

Modern Brick Structure Expected To Be Ready for Use by April 1.

ROCKMART, Ga., Jan. 31.—Ground was broken here early this week for the ection of a new post-office building here. Tom Selman, of Rome, was the successful bidder, offering to build a modern brick structure for use by the postoffice department, while several buildings in the city were effered for lease of ten years. Dan Williamson, local contractor, received the contract for the new building, and work is expected to be completed in from 30 to 40 working days. The new building, which will have every modern convenience, and large plate glass front, will be 40x75 feet, with the postoffice occupying a space of 23x75 feet. The new building is to be located on Marble and Maple streets, two of the principal streets of the city. All new equipment will be installed in the new building by a government representative, which is expected to be ready for use by April 1.

A notice that Pierre, formerly with the club Mona Liza in New York, has gone with another club calls to mind that one of the greatest artists one ever had the pleasure of watching perform was this same Pierre. Especially when he was engaged in cooking Crepe Suzettes.

Now, an artist is an artist whether he be in the ring or on the gridiron or chasing a fly in the outfield or playing a piano or painting a picture. And Pierre was an artist at cooking Crepe Suzettes, that perfect dessert.

Pierre first wheeled up near one's dining table a sort of glorified tea table. On it rested, gleaming with nickel polish, an alcohol stove. And beside it rested a gleaming, heavy fry-Under the rules adopted each club lights of the room and flashed back a thousand iridescent will be permitted to carry 15 players, with four men who have played Class gleams. Laid out beside it, like a surgeon's tools, were the cooking implements. With the table set Pierre appeared. Behind him walked two assistants. One of them carried a heavy glass bowl of batter, ivory white and of flawless texture.

Then Pierre took charge. The alcohol lamp was lit with grand gesture. Its blue flame leaped up. Quickly the gleaming frying pan was placed on the flame. A silver knife dug up lumps of the golden yellow butter with its pieces of orange peel.

They began to simmer in the pan, giving off a perfume.

Once the butter was bubbling Pierre dropped in some of the batter which formed little cakes which in turn began to bubble in the butter. Pierre turned them with a deft flip of his broad spatula

They were thin and a delicate brown on one side. Once they were turned Pierre seized a bottle and poured in a dash of cointreau. This was followed by a dash of cognac. Then, with a touch of the artist, he blew the flame of the alcohol lamp so that it licked over the edge of the pan and ignited the liquids inside.

As it flamed Pierre was busy turning the thin cakes, folding them over. And then as the flame burned out they appeared a deep brown in color, still simmering in the remaining butter.

The assistants appeared. Plates were served. The Crepe Suzettes, sweet and marvelous as to taste, melted away, laving a haunting memory of a perfect dessert. Tris Speaker, going back for a long, deep fly; Babe Ruth, winging for a home run; Paderewski playing the piano; Tunney jabbing and countering, had no more artistry than Pierre in the cooking of those Crepe Suzettes.

When Bucky Harris looks over his Tiger hopefuls at Palo Alto, Cal., this spring, he is certain to give more than a passing glance to Joyner White, the youthful outfielder up from Beaumont of the Texas league for a trial with Detroit. This youngster has been going places at a fast with such abandon.

White has yet to prove that he can hit major league pitching and run the bases wild on big league catchers, but he rapped the ball for a 298 with such abandon.

The best team batting average in the Texas league last year was .282, while White's own team finished with .265, which indicates that Joyner was hitting pretty good pitching. His 52 stolen bases were not unusual for him either, for he swiped 43 of them with Fort Smith in the Western Association the year before.

Baseball might do something about those debts. It is possible that those having equity in them would be willing to settle for small amounts. Investigation might reveal that several of them could be cancelled.

The old days, when minor league baseball was comparatively rich, are gone forever. Baseball doesn't have the general appeal it once did. Baseball would be wise to lend the interested cities more of a helping hand. When one considers that after the war there were more than 50 minor leagues and that now there are only 16, one gets an idea of what has happened to minor league baseball.

"FROZEN" BASEBALL DEBTS.

Quite a few minor league baseball cities are kept out of baseball because of frozen debts left by old promoters but still on the books of the National Baseball Association. They stand against any promoter who seeks to revive the game in the cities where such debts exist.

Rube Marquard, who last spring helped train the Cracker pitchers, holds a judgment of something like $2,000 against the now defunct Jacksonville franchise.

Whoever puts baseball back into circulation against Jacksonville must assume and pay that debt before he can operate.

There is said to be a debt of almost $10,000 against the Savannah franchise. This makes it almost prohibitive for the coast city to revive baseball. Minor league cities are always touch and go anyhow. Ten thousand dollars would meet the pay roll for at least three months,

Baseball might do something about those debts. It

Roy Mundorff's Georgia Tech basketball team, following a decisive 30-20 victory over Georgia Bulldogs Saturday night here, have two more hard games booked this week, including a return skirmish with the Red and Black at Athens.

The Jackets leave tomorrow night for Birmingham, where on Wednesday night they play Hank Crisp's University of Alabama team. The Birmingham Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the game, which was shifted from Tuscaloosa, and anticipates a big crowd.

On Saturday night Tech goes to Athens for the second game with Georgia. The Bulldogs are back here February 23. On Saturday night week Tech plays Auburn here and on February 17 Mercer is the oppenent.

Ivy (Chick) Shiver, who plays professional baseball in the summer and coaches football in the fall, is somewhat undecided about playing for Toronto this year, to which club he has been sent by Detroit.

Shiver, who has always batted above .300 in Class A ball, is having trouble with his throwing arm. He plans to try it out soon before making plans to report to the Toronto club.

The latter team, incidentally, will train in Atlanta, and Shiver has plenty of time to get in shape.

For the first time in many moons, there will be no outstanding ends on Georgia's football squad when the Bulldogs go into spring training at Athens today.

This problem of finding two men to hold down the extremities of the 1932 Bulldog line—not only has Coach Harry Mehre and his board of strategy completely stumped, but has left End Coach Chick Shiver with a severe case of insomnia.

As time for spring training has drawn closer, Mehre and Shiver have been visited by nightmares wherein they visioned halfbacks in the livery of Tulane, N. Y. U. and even Auburn and Tech galloping for endless yards around Georgia's ends while a Red and Black flankman lay prope on the ground.

"Unless we find a couple, I don't know how we can go next fall, and right now there's not much material in sight," quoth Shiver, who was in Atlanta Safurday night. "Chick" looked a bit haggard as if he, too, had found Morpheus a rare visitor.

For six years Georgia has not had to worry a great deal about ends. Athens has seen a golden era of great wingmen. End stock has been booming but now it is very quiet.

First there was the combination of Nash and Shiver that reached its height in 1927. Both names embellished many All-Americans. Then came Catfish Smith and Herb Maffett. Smith was the spectacular, dashing type. Maffett was a great blocker and all-around performer.

When Maffett left, a little guy named Wedd Kelly stepped in to play at right end. He and the Catfish were another fine pair. While Smith smashed through and hounded plays around, Kelly, the orthodox, was playing according to Hoyle. Like Maffett, he was a good workman in his own right.

But now what has Georgia to carry on the dynasty? Kelly graduates with

The Olympic Start,

Olympia will be transferred to Lake Placid this week and it is to be hoped the sunshine of ancient Greece will be supplanted by snow and ice, always useful products in any set of winter games.

As the case stands now, these Olympic winter games, starting on Thursday, will bring about the keenest sort of competition among the GAINESVILLE, Fla., Jan. 31.—

(P)—Dean Slagle, vice president of the Southern conference, writing in the February Florida Alumnus magazine, says it is "quite probable" that refusal of the confer ace to adopt a commissioner of athletics will lead to renewed agitation for a southern "Big Ten" snortes group.

As the tase stands how, these Olympic what the keenest sort of competition among the 350 or more starters. One can say in advance that it will take a world of talent to get any ski decision over Norway, and it will take something more to lift the fancy skating crown from the young head of Sonja Henie, another Norwegian entry.

The United States has an edge in the bobsled adventure and Canada is always to be reckoned with when a hockey competition breaks loose. When you bring the world's best together, the pace is sure to be ter-rific from the start, so more than a few records will be broken before an-other fortnight has slipped away.

The football rules committee is to gather soon and check over a list of things for the good of the game. In this connection, Edward J. Storey, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., who has played a leading role in school football, has these suggestions to offer:

"Football will owe its future development and permanency to the consideration the rules committee give to high school football, which is the foundation of the game. There are some 300,000 boys at high school, of which one-tenth annually are given to the college game. Therefore it is easy to see that high-school football must stay, if theegreat American game is to continue. If we are to complete the education of our chiffon influenced boys, it is the feeling of leaders in physical education that football must stay since we have no substitution.
"In looking over the records, I note

"In looking over the records, I note the following five points are given as reasons for injuries and fatalities during the season. I have carefully checked these and I would add two more to complete the story:

"1. Piling on, and its cause, erawling.

"2. Illegal use of the hands by the defense of the line.

"3. Getting the star.

"4. The wedge kickoff.

"5. Poor condition of players.

"Medical supervision of players before and while practicing—i. e., with the fifth rule official.

"Defense technique in officiating and calling of all penalties.

"I also supersted to the rules.

"I also suggested to the rules committee in December that some consideration must be given to the design of protective padding for the high school boy, since he presents an entirely different problem from the college player. Pads in the past have been designed for the college man and then cut down in size for the kid brother. The skeleton condition of the boy between 16 and 20 is entirely different from that of the bby between the ages of 20 and 25.

"Not only should the rules committee distribute the pamphlets of technical information on the fundamentals of the game of football, but I believe considerable publicity should be given via the press since it is one of our great educational institutions."

Major Loop Rally On at New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—(P) Baseball's midwinter major league rally began tonight with some scattered trade talk in the air, Babe Ruth and Hack Wilson breaking bread at the same banquet board and the magnates subjected to some light lampooning at the annual frolic of the New York Baseball Writers' Association.

ling at the annual fronc of use New York Baseball Writers' Association.

The association's ninth annual dinner, attended by representatives of nearly all 16 big league clubs, was a forerunner to the league schedule meetings, to be held tomorrow and Tuesday.

Guests of the baseball writers tonight included Commissioner K. M. Landis as well as the two major league presidents, John' A. Heydler and William Harridge. Speakers on the program included Mayor James J. Walker, Max Carey, Bugs Baer, Major General William R. Smith, retiring superintendent at West Point; Eranch Rickey, Robert H. Davis, the writer, and Bozeman Bulger.

Annual awards of the writers' New York chapter were presented to Wilbert Robinson, deposed manager of the Brooklyn club, for "outstanding service," and to Lou Gehrig, Yankee first baseman, as the "player of the year."

There isn't any questioning the fact that boys between the ages of 12 and 18, playing football, should be carefully watched and guarded, especially where it is a matter of younger and lighter boys meeting older and heavier ones. It is under these conditions that a world of damage results each fall. It can be stated here that the rules committee will give this subject and problems. He is still willing to swing.

So Peter looked this way and that way and then started across Farmer Brown's dooryard, stopping every few hops to look and listen. Jimmy's tracks were easy to follow in the moonlight. At first there were no other tracks. Then Petes came to the driveway, and there the tracks were lost, for the snow was all trampled by the feet of horses and men. Peter kept on and presently found Jimmy's tracks again. He had gone straight across. Then Peter came to the porch at the back of Farmer Brown's house and the hole under it which he knew Black Pussy the Cat had used. Here there were a lot of tracks, but none of Black Pussy's. They were Jimmy Skunk's tracks, some leading away from it and some leading into it. The opser Peter had followed led into it. None so fresh as these led away from it.

CHINESE AT HARBIN

400 of Ting's Men Die in Assault Upon Military

BY JAMES P. HOWE.

TOKYO, Jan. 31.-(P)-A savage gagement resulting in heavy casualties was 'night near Harbin, Manchuria, today between Japanese forces and Chinese soldiers attached to Gen eral Ting Chao, commander of the Chinese Eastern railway guards.

News dispatches said 400 Chinese were killed in a conflict lasting several hours and listed the Japanese losses at 21 killed and 38 wounded. The Chinese were said to have been driven back.

After a preliminary artillery bombardment in which a number of shells struck a Japanese military train, the Chinese attacked the railway station at Shuang Chen, south of Harbin, and conducted a ferocious bayonet charge tect their nationals from the inroads of General Ting's troops and from a repetition of recent sangulaary riot-

Officials of the railroad, jointly owned and operated by China and Russia, were renorted to have agreed to the use of the branch line between Changchun and Harbin for the transportation of Japanese troops to the north, and the manager has gone to Changchun to make arrangements.

The board of directors previously refused to permit Japanese troop movements over the line but the soviet government pronounced its approval providing Chinese authorities in Peiping and Nanking agreed. Whether or not this permission was obtained was not revealed.

Close-Range Fighting.

The Rengo (Japanese) News Agency correspondent at Shuang-chen described the fighting as the hottest at close range since the occupation of Manchuria.

Efforts to establish a neutral zone in Shanghai were reported to have been made. It was authoritatively said, however, that Japan could not agree to give up defense of its sector against Chinese to a third power.

The Chinese public was aroused today by a report, apparently well founded, that Japanese forces had executed 20 Chinese within the yard of the Chinese Christian church in the Hongkew area of the International Settlement. The Japanese caught 28 Chinese on the church grounds Saturday night, allowed eight to escape and killed the rest on the spot, the report said.

A wave of apprehension swept down the Yangtze river valley, Japanese residents of river ports as far as Hankow hastily erected defenses against expected attacks by the enranged Chinese.

Thirty thousands of the finest troops of China poured into Nanking from Honan province. It was announced that these troops, armed with German automatic riftes and clad in smart green uniforms, would be held in Nanking against the possibility of a Japanese attack, but there were reports they were destined for service at Shanghai.

In Tokyo Foreign Minister Yoshizawa asked the American, British and French ambassadors to selicit the support of their governments for measures to persuade the Chinese to abandon warilike operations at Shanghai. Unless the situation there is relieved quickly, the foreign minister said, "the Japanese army probably will be called."

The British government rushed additional troops to Shanghai. A battalion of infantry and a battery of artillery were ordered to leave Hong Kong immediately, traveling by warship.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(R)—Congressional democrats were described today as casting aside party considerations to help President Hoover's reconstruction program become effective.

The statement was made by Representative Rainey, of Illinois, the party leader, through the democratic national committee.

"Clearly, the house democratic majority, asswell as democrats in the senate, have shown that they are capable of rising above partisanships by the manner in which they have co-operated," Rainey said. "By shelving the administration proposal to apply retroactive taxes," he added, "the democratic majority of the ways and means committee have shown that no legitimate business has anything to fear from a democratic administration."

Faced with pleas to send help for the 1,300 marines now on guard at the International Settlement, where 3,600 private American citizens are endangered, the president called in his military, naval and diplomatic counsellors. They agreed that quick and decisive action was imperative.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited, Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatsield, care The Atlanta Constitution,

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

Fifteen years ago I married a widower, the father of an adored son.

He was 13 years old then. From the day of our marriage this boy has been a thorn in my side. He treated me as a servant in the house. He always had the most expensive clothes, went to the most expensive preparatory school and then to a fine college. In the 15 years I have had three vacations, while he has had numberless trips. He had everything his heart desired and I worked like a slave trying to help my husband get ahead. If I protested against anything he had or did he would reply to me, "This is my father's house and if you don't like it you can get out." Many times I lost my temper and raised Cain but his father could never seem to see that his son was in the wrong. We now have five children and I am forced to economize more closely than ever. This son has a fine position, makes a good salary and I think he should pay board, as a return for the sacrifice I have had to make for him. He resents the suggestion and, as usual, his father agreed with his viewpoint. I have just about reached the breaking point. Please give me your opinion.

STEP-MOTHER.

I asked a step-mother of a grown son if she thought it-right and proper such a young man to pay board in his father's home and her reply was t she thought every self-supporting boy or girl should be made to pay ard the expenses of the home, even if the money were not needed by the ents. Then I asked her what she would do if her step-son refused to pay board and the father upheld him in the refusal. "I'd starve him out," answered, "and when he complained that the fare was poor I would him that only his board money would improve it." Maybe she would, maybe she wouldn't but the mental anguish the two of them would put through would be worse than the starvation diet she put them through.

And so, step-mother, this is the price you have paid for a husband, a home and five shildren of your own. Maybe you think it an unnecessarily high price but you have paid it. Now you may take your choice of spending your time fretting over your folly, regretting your bargain, abusing the man that you bargained with. Or you may spend it rejoicing over the blessings that went with it. The cheerful thought is that in the natural course of events, the stepson will soon be getting married and moving out, leaving you and your own children in the home that he now poisons with his presence.

the meantime you should not put yourself in position to be ated by his insolence. If there must be any sort of discussion ney between you, appoint the father your spokeman. If he does approve your demands they come to naught anyhow, so you can him the medium through which you carry on negotiations with

A man has no right to marry a woman unless he recognizes her right to some first in his life. Any intimation that she doesn't occupy the first place in his life makes her tigerish toward the person or thing that comes between her and her rightful place. If these fathers of sons and daughters could only the thing that the best way to secure justice and even affection to those children from their step-mothers, is to make it clear to the wife that she has the lirst place in his life! Then she will not be jealous of his children and she will be much more likely to do her full part by them. This step-relationship is one of the most trying experiences that come to men and women. It is much more likely to do her full part by them. This step-relationship is one of the most trying experiences that come to men and women. It is stripe their failure to many different causes. They will tell you how well hey could have managed if things had been different. But the cold hard act remains that jealousy, green jealousy, is at the bottom of most of it, and who isn't jealous when she is robbed of something that rightfully belongs to her? And who is jealous when he sees his father taking into his home twoman that is to usurp his place and stand in the relationship with his ather that his mother once stood? And there you are. All the reasoning son't rub it out. All the moralizing won't change it. It is jealousy that verecks step-relationships.

North's Raise is conservative. Actually his hand contains 5 playing-tricks with spades as trump and hence two Raises.

East, not vulnerable, has a justifiable Overcall, as any loss might be offset by the honor count. Besides, he has an apparently safe escape in hearts.

South has more than sufficient strength for a Rebid.

West's pass is perhaps timid, but he fears to drive his opponents into a game declaration.

North now gives his second Raise, which he could have given on the finst round of bidding.

Both East and West are misled by the bidding of North and South into feeling that there is a good chance of defeating the contract and thence it would be unwise to overbid, to save the game.

The committee, in effect, acquires the excess plants, and holds them shut with the probable purpose of keeping them that way until there is an evident need of increasing capacity.

Meanwhile the fight to cut costs through wage reductions goes on bitterly with the likelihood that economic necessity will force many laborers the market for manufactured goods both at home and abroad.

Despite the large daily sales of spots, the selling of hedges has continued of very moderate proportions, indicating that much cotton is being carried wide open, so to speak, and without the security of hedges.

The exports have continued comparatively heavy and have been much larger for the week than for the corresponding period last season. As a result of the persistent large exports the shipments from American ports to date this season are now more than 400,000 bales ahead of last season and the large stocks on shipboard and the liberal freight engagements point to continued large clearances.

The following shows the high, low and closing sales in the New Orleans futures market during the past week compared with a year ago:

ADVERSE INFLUENCES

BY JOHN L. COOLEY.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—(49)—Adverse influences, mostly in the form of unfavorable earnings statements and dividend actions, have directed the curb market's course during recent

The market was heavy last week. Selling attained little volume but the downward movement was fairly continuous and trading lacked vitality. Utilities were especially soft. Low priced industrials fluctuated narrowly for the most part, but there were exceptions to this tendency among the more rolatile shares.

exceptions to this tendency among the more rolatile shares. Electric Bond & Share, leader of the utility group and usually the curb's most active stock, was under pressure almost constantly, finally breaking under 11. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore and American Gas & Electric were other heavy spots. Preferred issues again moved widely, several suffering substantial losses, although the amount of stock involved was small.

Frick Managers and Salesmen Hold Sales Conference Here

The Frick factory organization was represented by W. R. Snively, secretary and general sales manager, who brought the southern men the good news that the president of their company, with a confidence in the coming season's business, had just ordered a doubled production of all farm implements over lest vear's production. ments over last year's production.

They assert that people who have never driven a tractor before can handle this easy running and easy guided tractor and do everything about a farm that is needed—plowing, planting, cultivating and hauling—just as easy as driving an antomobile.

This new universal tractor, when equipped with a new farming unit called an "attachor" that works behind the rear wheels, can do an unbelievable amount of work in a day with this small, low cost tractor. For it is not only a four-cylinder machine.

This is due to the speed this tractor can make hour after hour. A boy or girl would call it fun to plow in one day what their fathers and grand-fathers considered their most dreaded week's work. This sturdy machine of but few parts will operate 24 hours a day at a cheap fuel cost. The farmer is always independent of sudden rises in fuel costs, for when gasoline is

TARZAN AND THE ANT MEN

Miranda fumbled with the ancient lock several Miranda fumbled with the ancient lock several minutes before it gave at last to the worn key the girl had brought. "Get me weapons!" he whispered, and Uhha departed through the shadows of the village street. The Spaniard knew she was terrified and would obey his commands. Presently the witch doctor's daughter returned with a quiver of arrows, a bow, and a stout knife. "Now lead me to the gate," ordered Miranda. Creeping back of the huts, the girl guided him to the village entrance.

Upon that very morning, several marches distant from Obebe's village, two stalwart men came out upon the pleasant versi de of Lord Greystoke's African bungalow. Both were clad in khaki, one man carrying a flier's helmet and a pair of goggles in his hand. He was smiling as he listened to the other speak. "Don't worry, Korak," the elder man remarked. "I promise I'll do just this one flight alone. If you have been a good instructor, you should have confidence in my ability to pilot the ship." MERCHANDISE
